To whom it may concern,

This letter is in reference to my professional experience in working with Dom Nakano. I have been fortunate enough to work with Dom as his welding instructor.

Dom graduated from the full time Welding AAS degree program at SPSCC. As a student, Dom learns very quickly and is efficient in class. He was able to complete many of his welding and fabrication tasks early, including obtaining his WABO certifications several quarters earlier than normal. Because of his ability to compete work ahead of schedule Dom was frequently assigned projects that are more advanced than is typically seen in this program.

Working with Dom it is clear that he takes a lot of pride in his work and is continuously looking for ways to improve. He has excellent fitting skills and is an exceptional welder. Dom has an excellent work ethic, is dependable and punctual.

By working with him it is obvious that Dom is a hard worker and does whatever is needed to ensure he provides his best work and product. I do strongly believe that Dom would not only make a great addition to the workplace but also be a great asset to his employer
