

Having worked on many diverse electrical and mechanical diagnostic and repair shops, my experience has taught me how to prioritize tasks and respect deadlines. Through my electrical practice, both in a small company and in international ones, I have developed great attention to detail, the ability to work on many fronts, teamwork, and the discipline needed to organize not only my thoughts but the various tasks that are needed to perfect a given outcome. The many positive experiences I gained during my years as an electrician contributed to building a strong base that allowed me to succeed later on. Be it in the service shop or in the diagnostic center. my job always demanded excellent managerial skills, focus, and the capacity to be highly organized. having to coordinate and work for different service workshops over a period of three years, I developed excellent computational skills and knowledge in specific automotive software and Microsoft office, skills that gave me a competitive edge over my coworkers, and I was assigned along with another mechanic to head the outdoor recall repair team and to monitor the spare parts inventory. I'm a fast and eager learner, passionate, and dedicated to what I do. I'm sure I would be an asset to your organization if given the appropriate opportunity.
